MISCHIEF-MAKERS.

Oh could there in this world be found
Some little spot of happy ground
Where village pleasures might be found
Without the village tattling.
How doubly blessed that place would be,
Where all might dwell in liberty
And feel themselves forever free
Of gossip's endless prattling!

If such a spot was really known,
Dame Peace might claim it as her own,
And in it she might fix her throne,
Forever and forever;
There, like a queen, might reign and live,
Where every one would soon forgive
The little slights they might receive,
And be offended never.

The mischief-makers that remove
Far from our hearts the warmth of love,
And lead us all to disapprove
What gives another pleasure;
They seem to take one's part, when
They've heard their cause, unkindly then
They soon retail their all again,
Mixed with poisonous measure.

They have such a cunning way
Of telling tales. They say,
"Don't mention what I say, I pray,
I would not tell another."
Straight to a neighbor's house they go,
Narrating everything they know,
And break the peace of high and low;
Wife, husband, friend and brother.

For it's a sad, degrading part,
To make another's bosom smart,
And plant a dagger in the heart.
We ought to love and cherish;
Then let us evermore be found
In quietness with all around,
While friendship, peace and joy abound,
And angry feeling perish.

Major Box.

Sketch of a Rebel Darkey.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS.

From the Bourbon Democrat.

We were more than pleased, a few days ago, at receiving a short letter of thanks and congratulations from an old army friend, now located in West Tennessee, who, by his sound practical sense, is reaping a fortune in Henry county. Our readers may be somewhat surprised when we inform them that this friend is a negro, so black that a charcoal mark upon his face would give it a light appearance. His name is Major Box, and there is not a member of Morgan's old brigade, but will remember some act of kindness rendered by this sable hero during the war.

For the benefit of those unacquainted with the Major, we will here pencil-sketch him; imagine a man, originally six feet in height and quite spare, having been struck by a giant on the top of the head with a maul, and his height reduced to scant three and a half feet, with a broad, jovial face, duck legs, his body double the width of its length, his kinky head slightly tinged with grey, and you have an outline of our hero; and as it has been customary for newspapers, magazines and authors to devote much time and space to the prominent men engaged in the late war, we propose to furnish a few pages of the Major's life history.

Born a slave, and raised in Harrison county, he early imbibed a love for Southern gentlemen and an intense hatred for straggling Yankees, owing, probably, to the fact that the first whipping he ever received was administered to him by his master for alleged impertinence to a Yankee schoolmaster.

When the war commenced he was so out spoken against the North and in favor of the South, that when the Yankee forces came to Cynthiana he was taken possession of and made to perform menial service by an officer, and when the regiment was marched to Richmond, Ky., in the spring of 1862, Box accompanied it, but so much against his will that the first favorable opportunity presenting he seized upon and returned to Cynthiana, where he remained until Morgan's first raid, when he volunteered to go South, and from that time until the close of the war he made a good soldier, fighting in every battle when permitted, and when not thus employed, was in the thickest of the fight, assisting in removing the wounded or in the hospitals nursing.

Popular beyond compare with all true soldiers, and justly hated by shirks, his name and fame extended throughout the command. No daring scout was ever projected, no contemplated raid ever mentioned, but his eyes would brighten and his teeth glisten. With all his good qualities he was fond of fun, and many were the practical jokes played upon upstart soldiers and officers by the Major. We will mention a few.

When the old regulars, General Duke's famous regiment, were encamped at Woodberry, Tenn., in the winter of '62 and '63, the Major was on the staff of Capt. C., Lt. W. and others; his principal duty at the time consisted in scouting the town and farm houses adjacent, in order to furnish his mess with a "square meal." The low state of the commissary and the drain already made upon the citizens for supplies by Bragg's army, rendered hard labor and great tact essential to success, and often it happened that the mess would be reduced to short allowance. In the mess of the commanding officer of the regiment there was a fancy young officer, glib in tongue, handsome in form and face, polished in manners, faultless in dress, and of extraordinary conversational powers; but, as his after course proved, alas! was unworthy the name of Confederate soldier.

Well, this young man, who, for convenience sake, we will call Hercules, by the combination of shape, winning ways, and talent, had worked his way into the good graces of the fairer portion of society, and although but a Sergeant major in rank, was extensively known as Major Hercules; and, through his popularity with the young ladies, headquarters mess lived in luxury; for never a day passed without his receiving substantial tokens of esteem in the way of good edibles and unusual delicacies. This chagrined and mortified the Major until he determined to put an end to it; so one day, after a long ride and fruitless search, he drew up at a handsome house, where a beautiful young lady was engaged in filling a large basket with such food as only a hungry soldier could do justice to. He was asked if he knew Major Hercules. He answered that he did, and that he had been sent by him for his dinner. He received it, returned to camp, and nothing to his mess how or where he had obtained the provisions, and they disposed of them speedily.

Hardly had they finished the repast before Hercules appeared, and in great rage, accosted the Major saying: "Box, why the devil did you steal my dinner, you infernal, black rascal?"

Box, with the most innocent air in the world, replied thusly: "Why, Mr. Sergeant Hercules, de lady did say it was fur Major Hercules, and I see looked all fur de regiment to find him, but couldn't. I know dat dar was a Sergeant Major Hercules, but never thought he called Bessel Major."

Not waiting for anything more, the gallant Hercules thought his strength lay in the speed of his horse; so, wheeling, he left the mess, who, almost convulsed with laughter, promoted Box forthwith to his present rank; that of major.

We could from memory relate many amusing scenes and incidents in the war-life of the Major, but space forbids.

He writes that "Brownlow and de other poor white trash and low down niggers is actin' de fool, but he hopes dat Tennessee will come all right yit."

He is enjoying fine health, and proposes to do something to aid the Cynthiana Monumental Society. We wish him abundant success and a ripe old age.

Joe H—, is one of the characters in Lafayette township. Recently he was summoned to act as a jurymen in a case being tried before a magistrate. He proposed to the parties to the suit that they should allow him alone to act as a jury and decide the case. They agreed, the evidence was heard, and Joe retired to make up his verdict. He soon procured a bottle of whisky, some crackers, a box of sardines and a can of oyster oysters from the defendant in the suit. He helped himself to as much as he wanted of the provisions and quietly laid down in the room in which he was locked and took a nap. He awoke toward evening, and reported that the jury had not agreed upon a verdict, and sent the constable after the plaintiff demanded more oysters, crackers, sardines and whisky. With these he spent the night, and had a good supply over breakfast. And again he answered the jury had not agreed. Towards noon, getting very thirsty, and unable to get further supplies, Joe called in the constable, had himself conducted before the squire, reported that it was impossible for the jury to agree, was discharged. He says that where the eating and drinking is as good as in this case, he don't mind sitting on a jury.

From the Lexington Obs. & Rep.

The negro is free—let him remain so. He is a man—let him be protected in person, family and property by ample legal means. This done, all is done that can be justly asked of the laws.

The people of the South ought and are disposed to treat him kindly, generously, and justly; to assist him in building churches and school houses, and developing his race to the highest possible degree. This we have ever urged—in this the vast majority of the South agree. But there is no good reason why the negro should be clothed with citizenship; manifold and conclusive reasons why he should not.—Above all, it is clear that only ruin can come of the domination of States by negroes.

The proportion of white to black in this country is about eight to one. If the four millions of negroes were equally scattered over the whole country so that every negro would be surrounded by the eight whites, the negro question would be one of inappreciable importance. They might like the poor, be always with us, but like the poor, every parish could manage the matter for itself. But the fact is that in at least four States the negroes outnumber the whites; in five more they are nearly equal; in six more are many thousands, enough perhaps to make temporarily a balance of power. The late measures of the Radical party really places the control of eleven States into the hands of the negroes or their tools. This race for thousands of years have never developed capacity enough to administer any government than that of savage ferocity. Under the enlightenment, produced during slavery by contact with the whites, and by the amalgamation which has produced negroes with an infusion of white blood, the race has reached in America its highest development, and is utterly incapable of administering any free and regulated government. Were negroes alone to suffer from failure to control these States wisely, while we would deplore the experiment, we might be silent; but millions of whites are involved in the failure, and the bankruptcy, humiliation and perhaps destruction of eleven States hang in the balance. In addition to this, the experiment adds to the burdens of taxation and the financial complications of the remainder of the country. During its trial, as in its inception the Constitution must be daily violated, our institutions subverted, military despotism to a certain extent erected over a portion of the Union, and precedents established which can be used to justify an overthrow of the Government and the establishment of a despotism.

When we remember that these things are done, and these risks run from selfish motives for party purposes, is any language too strong in condemnation of authors of such measures?

No false philosophy, no canting philanthropy, no party end can justify the destruction, not even the disfranchisement of seven millions of whites to place in power four millions of negroes.

The Radicals have attempted to do this, and the country is revolting against it.

A small boy out West was assisting his father to mark sheep with paint and brush. The father would catch a sheep and say to the boy, "mark that." After the job was done the boy started for his home, which was at some distance, and was overtaken by a minister on horse back, who, seeing the boy barefoot, invited him to a ride behind him. After the boy was seated he began to talk to him thus: "My lad do you attend the Sunday School?"

"No."

"You should attend the Sunday School, mark that! All good children should attend the Sunday school, mark that!"

After many more remarks, the boy replied: "I have marked your back all over now, and it looks like thunder!"

He was somewhat astonished when he examined his coat.

An old clergyman one Sunday, at the close of the sermon, gave notice to the congregation that in the course of the week he expected to go on a mission to the heathen. One of his parishioners, in great agitation, exclaimed: "Why, my dear sir, you have never told us one word of this before! What shall we do?"

"Oh, brother," said the parson. "I don't expect to go out of town?"

BOARDING AROUND.—Not many years, since in West Plymouth, N. H., it was the custom for the schoolmaster to "board round" among the families of his pupils, to save expense. Sometimes, of course the days don't come out quite even—there would be eight and a half days at one house and nine at another. One man, who was notorious for his meanness, just before the schoolmaster began his dinner, said to him: "Mr. —," said he: "I suppose, by rights, that your time is up just about half way through this dinner. That's as near as I can make it, and I've calculated pretty close. But I don't wish to be small about it, and you kin eat just about as much as you would do for ordinary!" Such a man as that wouldn't take his county paper.

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS

CYNTHIANA, KY.
THURSDAY, : : : Oct., 24, 1867

A. J. MONEY, Editor.

The city of Cynthiana is growing; her trade has increased, and her borders are extending. New additions are being added to its body corporate, monthly and quarterly. We had supposed that we were able to keep pace with the number of houses in course of erection this year, but we find ourselves behind in this particular. And with all the busy hum of the laboring masses throwing material together for domicils, yet as fast as they increase, so much faster and greater is the demand. Rents are going up and business is growing stronger, and the credit system growing shorter, and if greenbacks were somewhat plentiful, the world at large would be surprised at the progress that the "City of Maidens," would be able to make in another year.

Cynthiana is emphatically a white man's town. Here a man receives a hearty welcome if he has a white face and a white heart, and will be encouraged and preferred above all niggers, let them come from whatever clime of God's footstool. The people of this country take no stock in free-niggers, negro equality, black republican radicalism. They continue to live after the manner and principles laid down by our old Revolutionary Father's as near as possible. They are a tolerant, democratic people.

As there seems to be a backwardness on the part of capitalists to take hold and build dwellings, mechanics and laborers will be compelled to erect houses for themselves. Most any man can raise two or three hundred dollars, and he who can should purchase a building lot immediately and make arrangements to put a house upon it.

As soon as the lot is obtained, employ an architect to furnish your plans and specifications of the kind of house you want, and the amount of money it will cost when finished for your wife and little ones to move into. Sleep upon the proposition one night, and when you arise in the morning tell your wife all about the building business, and listen attentively to all she may have to say, and if you can harmonize, act immediately, and make an effort to have a home or yourself and family.

You have no money! Well, go to a capitalist and lay your plans before him. Tell him you own a lot, and intend to build a home, and desire to borrow the money of him to consummate the purpose; and to secure him, propose to give him a mortgage on the property. The money is certain to come.

A mortgage is a poor man's friend, and every man should enlighten himself as to its nature.

If you cannot find a man with money to loan, in this country of your acquaintance, come and see the editor of the "News," and he will put you on the right track.

"Honesty is the best policy," should be the guide of all men, and especially young men, during life.

Straws show which way the winds blow. Little acts taken together, form the character. If an article is purchased on credit, and you pledge your honor to faithfully discharge the debt, be certain to liquidate it, at the moment of agreement, let it be ever so small. Men who pay attention to small matters, and make for themselves a character for promptness and honesty, need have no fear as to their success in life: or about their ability to obtain loans on mortgages.

Industry, economy and sobriety will lead to wealth and health; and every man, young or old, who has, or has not, a wife and family, should adopt a line of duty commensurate with the above ideas. Then it would not be long before a home could be made and saved to all who need one.

Save your money, and don't throw it away for whisky and beer.

Buy nothing that you do not need, and be careful to put everything that you own to good use.

Don't work one day, and loaf, or hunt, or fish the next, but pull up steadily and regularly every working day, at whatever you can find to do; and be certain to get your money, and take it home and place it in the hands of your wife. We say this because we know that women are better bankers than men, especially a portion of those that we wot of just now.

Follow our advice in this thing, and we will insure every man in Cynthiana and out of it, too, a good home in five years.

To unmarried men of our country, we would like to say a few words only. Men of this stripe are not supposed to be interested to any great extent in the affairs of the world, and as they care but little for mankind, as a matter of course, mankind cares but little for them. Let them put themselves in harness and then they can be expected to receive a large portion of sympathy; do this, and then all the good things of this life shall be added.

To the speculator, we say, tell the truth, and observe the ten commandments as near as possible; treat strangers kindly, and cease to talk about the impossibility of certain propositions. Pray to mammon, and collect your quartermaster on rents, and your interest on money loaned, and be very careful to read the history of old Shylock, yearly, that you may never get into the same difficulty that carried him down beneath the waves of adversity. Finally, remember that Cynthiana is a growing city, and that energetic and enterprising men have said that no place in Kentucky is better situated for trade, and that it will increase to more than ordinary dimensions.

The dry goods business has become in this city, more than a common trade. It has taken captive some of our best men, who have embarked their all in prospective speculations, with an energy and spirit, which leaves but little doubt as to the final triumph over dry goods, finance, and the ragged world. Men of enterprise are bound to succeed. They have the element in and about them. Such men don't wait till a road is made, they feel able to paddle their own canoe. Of this style of men, we might class the Stone Front firm, Messrs Cuson, Megibben & Kimbrough, who have put up a magnificent building on Main street, and established a large dry goods house, in this city, and have imported a splendid stock of goods which they sell at New York prices. Their goods are of every grade, from the fairest fabrics with the highest known prices to the lowest and common priced articles. At this house a lady or gentleman can be furnished with every kind of goods for wearing apparel and have them made up on short notice. Mrs. Kennard attends to the ladies dress making department, and Mr. Shawhan to the gentlemen's dress business. They give good fits, and fine suits cheap. The clerks in the house are active, gentlemanly, good-looking and accommodating. They take pleasure in paying attention to the ladies that visit the Stone Front, and it is said that none but good-looking ladies go there. The Stone Front has become an attractive place to visit. Go there at all times of the day, and you will always find a crowd. If you want to see a friend, especially a lady friend, that is the place to look for her. Individuals are coming from every quarter of the country to trade at the Stone Front.

The other evening we noticed a large box of dry goods from the Stone Front going by express to parties in Paris. Goods are marked down every week at the Stone Front. Call and see for yourselves.

He also purchased books at the Louisville Depository, for the payment of which he offered his wife's watch at the Conference at Newport, Ky., in 1860. I, however, declined his offer, and simply held his note for the amount.

On the 25th of September, having learned that he is the pastor of a large and wealthy congregation of Reformers in Paris, Ky., I wrote to him kindly, and asked him when he could pay me. For the information of all concerned, I publish his reply. The claim he makes of $1,500 due him from the Church, is only the failure to receive his full allowance, as a preacher on the circuits he filled. Such deficiencies occur frequently with preachers. A. H. Bedford.

Paris, Ky., 6th Oct., 1867.

Rev. A. H. Bedford—Dear Sir:—Yours of the 25th ult. to hand, and contents noted. In answer to your query, "when can I pay the note?" I answer with great emphasis, never. You might just as well save yourself all trouble on this subject, for beyond this letter I shall never pay the slightest attention to anything you or any other person can say or do concerning the matter. The Methodist Church, South, owes me to-day $1,500 in back pay, for hard and faithful labor performed in various fields, and when you teach your people common honesty, and the necessity of regarding their solemn obligations, I will talk to you about the aforesaid notes. I am not the minion of a Methodist Bishop to-day, and I defy your power. Your church has tried to ruin me, now suppose it tries again! I deny owing the Southern Methodist Church anything. My resolution has long since been taken, and is firm and unalterable. Perhaps you might get it by suing me. Suppose you try it. Any letter that comes to me in the future, touching the business, will be thrown into the fire as soon as its character shall be ascertained. With due respect,
DAVID WALK.

The Louisville Courier in noticing the seizure of the distillery belonging to the Kentucky Bourbon Company, situated at Louisville, says it was done under the 23d and 25th sections of the act of Congress of July 23d, 1866. A violation of either of these sections warrants a forfeiture of all the whisky, machinery and apparatus found on the premises.

By the 23d section, rectifiers are required to pay a special tax.

The 25th section prohibits the carrying on of any other business on the premises where whisky is distilled.

It seems that the Bourbon Company had been making flour on the premises.

The attention of our friends is respectfully called to the above.

The Cincinnati Enquirer suggests that the Democracy should celebrate their victory in Ohio, on the Suspension Bridge, at Covington, and that the people of Kentucky should join with them. We are in for the celebration. State your time and give us notice and the Democracy of Harrison will come down.

A CARD TO INVALIDS.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of nervous weakness, arising from the disordered and deranged organs, and the train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, free of charge. Address, JOSEPH T. EXMAN; Station D, Bible House, New York City.

THE TRUTH ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

Whoever says that dyspepsia is incurable, tells a—that is to say, makes an egregious mistake. More than ten thousand aggravated cases have been cured by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, while the number that have been prevented from coming to a head, by the same means, is incalculable. In the season of the year, when the appetite is sometimes too vigorous for the comfort and safety of the stomach, indigestion is most prevalent and most distressing. Is the appetite to be balked to accommodate the digestive organs? No; so far from the frame would lack its due proportion of nutriment. The thing to be done is to strengthen the stomach, tone the liver, and put the bowels in perfect order. Nothing will do this so effectually, so rapidly, so quietly, so pleasantly, as Hostetter's Bitters. This potent preparation cleanses the system, and clothes it, as it were, with defensive armor. Chronic dyspepsia, liver complaint, and fever and ague are never known to attack those who are wise enough to invoke the aid of this great preventive.

BLUE GRASS FARM

FOR SALE.

THE Farm, which I now reside in, is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Fair Station, on the K. C. R. R., at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within three miles of Cynthiana, and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred and twenty of which are under a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling) and South Licking which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will besell for a reasonable price, the payments made easy, and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.

I also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmyra, on the road leading from there to Monticello, and about 16 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance prairie of good quality, a little rolling and dry, is in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settled and highly improved farms. There is a large handsome brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

POWDERS!!!

THIS PREPARATION IS THE DISCOVERY of the Rev. J. W. Polak, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church in Goffstown, N. H., and a man deeply beloved by that denomination, through him, New England. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine to save his own life, and his Magic Powders are one of the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is the great Liver and Bileous remedy, which completely throws in the shade all other discoveries in medicine, and it affords him much gratification that they receive the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The Magic Bileous Powders are a positive cure for Liver Complaint, in its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of all Bileous Derangements. Excellent for headache, constipation, pimples, blotches, a sallow skin, drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, palpitation and most wonderful cure and preventive for Fever and Ague. [We advise all who are troubled with this fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand for immediate use.]

Here are few important particulars:
1st.—They are the Great Specific for all Bileous Affections.

2d.—They are the only known remedy that will cure Liver Complaint.

You will find the largest and best assortment of cloths, cassimers and vestings, at J. H. Shawhan's.

Mr. Thos. Hill has commenced his brick Livery Stable on Pike street.

Mrs. Oxley has purchased the residence of C. B. Cook on Pleasant street.

Col. John Hogg offers his stock of the life of Morgan, by Gen. Duke, at half price. Call and get a copy; they are cheap.

We notice that C. B. Cook, has nearly finished his new mill near this city. It presents a very respectable appearance. We congratulate him for his energy and enterprise.

Lewis Day, Esq., has finished the brick work on his new business house on the corner of Pike and Walnut and is now about ready to put the roof on.

From appearances we should say that the bank building, especially the stone work, was advancing backwards. We suppose that is a peculiar style people have; but we don't admire the style.

Under shirts, over shirts, drawers, gloves, neck ties, handkerchiefs, cloth brushes, shoe brushes, etc., etc., at J. H. Shawhan's.

D. A. Givens is about putting up a new business house on Pike street, which will be two stories high. It would look better were it made three stories.

Last Tuesday an Irishman, whose name we did not learn, was thrown from a headcar, while passing Robertson's Station, and had his back broken, and his skull fractured. He is dead doubtless, by this time.

The nicest varieties of hats and caps, and the best boots and shoes are kept J. H. Shawhan.

A trotting race has been made up between Dr. Snodder's bay horse, "Elsal," and J. M. Smith's sorrel horse, "Stonewall Jackson." They are to trot mile heat's, best three in five, over J. M. Smith's track near Cynthiana, on Saturday, November 9th 1867, for five hundred dollars.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Carpenter & Brothers, in another column. They are prepared to furnish lumber of all kinds to customers in this city, and at Cincinnati prices.

The "hug and cry" that many grumblers raised as to the deficiency in the corn crop, &c., has very perceptibly ceased. It is our opinion that certain people would not be satisfied if they were sentenced to be hung.

The Grand Lodge of the Masonic Fraternity are in session at Louisville Grand Master, I. T. Martin, presiding.

Go to J. H. Shawhan's if you want any clothing, where you will find the largest and best assortment of clothing ever brought to this city.

Let us suggest to our citizens who have town lots to sell, that they should be careful not to dispose of them to speculators, but to actual settlers, and have it understood a house must be built, or the sale void. And another thing, be careful that you don't put a higher value on your property than the public do. There is nothing so injurious to the prosperity and advancement of a city, as a set of swell-headed property holders, who ask more for what they own than reason justifies.

Last week our young friend Hub Kid, ye man of business, at Lexington, went out gunning the other day and killed two ducks very dead. They were said to have been "Dead Ducks," for they were proved to have been tame, and on their owners' plantation, at the time they became "deceased." Such is our information.

On last Friday the young gentlemen of Cynthiana, took a tilt at each other in a game of Base Ball. There are two clubs in this place, named the "Licking" and "Star." A challenge had been passed and accepted. The weather was excellent, and the young men active and merry. It was fine fun and bully excitement. The following is the result of the game:

Scorers, Jas. Withers, and Gale Mercer. Umpire, F. Humphries, of Georgetown, B. C.

We are pleased to notice that our enterprising fellow-citizens, Jno. L. Shawhan and W. N. Atkins, have recently purchased of Dr. Peters, his mill property, situated in Scott county, on Elkhorn, between Lexington and Newtown, for 7,000 dollars. They intend to establish a first-class distillery, from which a stream of never ceasing "Oh, be joyful" shall flow at the rate of 16 barrels per day. Shawhan and Atkins are Kentucky gentlemen of the "blue and stock," and we can heartily commend them to our friends in Scott, as worthy of their respect and confidence.

J. S. Boyd, F. J. Megibben and A. H. Ward, have purchased from Zeb Ward, of Woodford, a stallion which for blood and pedigree will compare with the fastest as well as the purest blooded horses in Kentucky. We have not been furnished with his name, but he was sired by Lexington, dam by Cottage Girl, by imported Aurderry, and her dam is by Princess Ann, by imported Levithian. He is over 16 hands high, black mane and tail, and in color, a fine blood bay. We are pleased to see that these gentle men are taking so much interest in the improvement of the stock of our country. He can be seen at Mr. Smith's stable on Pleasant street.

Judge Broadwell has laid upon our table a book containing a number of notes which will be or are valuable to the owner. One note amounts to 1,100 dollars, made payable to Lewis Collins, from Whitfield Collins. If it belongs to Collins or any other man, he will call at this office and get his property.

Sad Casualty. - Last week, our friend, Jas. Craig, Esq., who is running a saw mill in Grant county, whilst repairing some of the machinery fell, and in attempting to save himself in the fall, caught his left hand in the crank of the piston, and had it torn off. Drs. Jeffries and Frank, of Williamstown, and Dr. Beale amputated his arm about just above the wrist. We are glad to learn he is doing well.

If you want the best boot in the United States, call at J. H. Shawhan's.
